As already I've written on other occasions, my idea is that if the need to protect the iPhone most of the time results in a more pleasant choice protection, durable, light or original, when in fact we are talking about protect the iPad is more interesting to choose a solution that will make it more convenient and versatile to use.

Imagine 5 and iPad mini iPad 2 thanks to the concept of Martin Hajek

September 16, 2013 | Manuel Agostini

This time I wanted to try a case for iPad mini, a device that iPad even more classic, thanks to its size and light weight is shown to be brought outside the home. This is the NuGuard® GripStand® mini, produced by Newer Technology, a case with a large handle, especially rated for use in working environments or very dynamic.

Metabolized the presentation of the new iPhone 5s, it is normal to focus on what will be the next event of some importance in Apple, ie the presentation of the next iPad, presumably 5 and mini 2. The ...

After two years Siri comes out of beta

September 15, 2013 | Luigi Falconi

It sounds absurd, but when Apple, in 2011, the event

The packaging of the NuGuard® GripStand® mini, completely transparent leave intact a glimpse of the product inside and what is its main feature, that is a large ring-shaped handle, able to rotate 360° and to assume any desired angle.

As we will see this mechanism allows you to place the iPad in either portrait or landscape and that tilt to any angle. It consists of a ring hinged to a pivot which in turn is fixed to a base able to rotate 360°. The materials used and the assembly give the feeling of a robust and long-lasting.

The base that can easily rotate after pressing the two side buttons, can also be removed, in those circumstances where there is no need of the handle, thus transforming the NuGuard® GripStand®, in a conventional houses.

The ring has its edges covered by a rubberized material of black color that provides maximum grip, both when it leans to a surface, but especially in all those uses in which the iPad is held with one hand.

It occurs to me as an agent of commerce that holds the iPad with one hand and with the other part of the customer's orders, or surveyor who goes in the yard with the iPad taking it like a briefcase.

The case made of transparent plastic, totally covers the rear of the iPad (when the handle is removed remains a central hole), however, remains discovered the display and then, those who wished to protect must inevitably think about buying a film or a smart cover, with which, however, the NuGuard ® GripStand ® mini is fully compatible.

Conclusions:

I used the NuGuard ® GripStand ® mini for several days and passed the initial period of adjustment to a radically different houses from all the others, I must say that I found myself very well, both in domestic use, where the iPad as mentioned can be placed in a thousand ways, but especially outside the home, in all those situations in which I could hold the device with one hand because the other I needed to touch the screen or do other things, so the risk of the slide iPad on the ground has translated to zero. Certainly it is not a case of "jocks", the NuGuard ® GripStand ® shows its vocation to work and uses dynamic, but it is able to give a versatility unknown to the enclosures designed specifically to protect. If I have to find a flaw, given the contexts in which it can be used, I would rather be able to choose a version with front cover which it is not available, thus forcing such a purchase additional.

The price is really very good, at the time of writing you can buy discounted on the site of the Newer Technology for $ 27.99 (about € 22), to which must be added the shipping from USA $ 12.05 (9 € approximately), in everything then about 31 €, which is a price amply justified by the special features of this case. There is also a version for iPad 9.7 " which currently costs less, $ 25 (18 €), so a real bargain if you are looking for something!

IPad adds a handle with a thousand uses

The NuGuard ® GripStand ® mini is definitely not a case convention, which offers a wide versatility pays particular attention to professional use or particularly dynamic. Materials and assembly make it safe and comfortable to use. I would have preferred it to be sold in conjunction with a cover for the display.
