Great Gadgets for Teaching and Learning: Newer Technology miniStack NAS

Add your own HD, $80; $130 for 80 GB; up to $330 for 750 GB.

Newer Technology, Inc.;
www.NewerTech.com

Requirements: Macintosh: Intel, G3 or G4 processor or higher running OS 10.4; 128 MB of RAM (256 MB recommended); OS 8.6 and later with an available USB port or OS 10.2.8 and later required (10.4 recommended) for network operation. Windows: Windows ME, Windows XP, Windows 2000 (Home or Professional), or Windows Vista; an available USB port or network.

The NDAS (Network Direct Attached Storage) solution minimizes the cost of making backups by allowing multiple users to access, save, or share documents and files using the NDAS disk as if it were a local drive. Measuring 6.5" x 6.5" x 1.5", the device comes in storage capacities ranging from 0 GB (just the enclosure, you will need to add your own 3.5" IDE drive) to 750 GB. Smaller capacity 80 GB and 160 GB models are equipped with 8 MB of data cache; larger capacity models sport 16 MB of data cache. Backed by a two-year repair/replacement warranty, all units feature one RJ-45 10/100 Base-TX Auto MDI/MDI-X port for standard Ethernet network access, one USB 2.0 High Speed port, a "Smart" power switch that powers the unit on and off in tandem with your computer, a Kensington Security Slot for cabling to a desk (security cable not included), plus an Ethernet and USB cable.
